CHAPEL HILL HIGH SCHOOL
CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA

MRS. MARTHA GILL

We dedicate the 1962 HILLIFE to a teacher who has shown special concern for us both in and out of school and has been an inspiration to us through her teaching. In appreciation for this time and talent that she has shared with us, we honor, through this HILLIFE dedication, Mrs. Martha Gill.

In Recognition of her

Spirited class discussions and enthusiasm characterize English III classes.

In the classroom Mrs. Gill has imparted to us her enthusiasm for her subject and has motivated us to have a real interest in everything from Hemingway to Ben Franklin. Her comic dramatizations of vocabulary words and figures of speech and her sparkling accounts of movies, television programs, and short stories have added much to the interest of her classes. Her own love for poetry has inspired many students to have a greater appreciation and enthusiasm for poetry. In the newly formed Creative Writing class she has encouraged her students to seek perfection in their writing style and at the same time to experiment with many different forms.

Mrs. Gill has devoted many class and after-school hours to the PROCONIAN, Chapel Hill High School's award-winning, bi-weekly newspaper. Under her direction it has continued to be an excellent newspaper and has won several awards including the SIPA first place award and NSPA first place award. She has seen the PROCONIAN through such crises as impending bankruptcy, late stories, wrong-size pictures, the paper back too late to be delivered to the students, and the daily schedule disrupted by snow. This year to further publicize CHHSers' activities, she has instigated a weekly radio program, "In's and Out's," devoted to the news of CHHS.

Many hours are spent after school working on the PROCONIAN under the direction of Mrs. Gill.

Mrs. Gill uses a chart in explaining PLATO'S REPUBLIC to a group of interested seniors.

Very generous with her time, Mrs. Gill has spent many hours after school and on week-ends working with us on all sorts of activities. Her original ideas and plain hard labor have been an integral part of Junior fund-raising projects and Junior-Seniors of the past two years. Typical of this imagination were her impromptu singing to amuse the children at the cartoon show when the movie projector broke down, her arranging to transport the stranded donkeys to the carnival, and her last-minute suggesting of a way to decorate the unexpectedly bare gym wall for the Junior-Senior. In addition to these Junior activities she has spent one evening every two weeks with a Senior discussion group.

Enthusiasm And Interest.

Foreword

Three basic criteria are involved in the choice of a yearbook theme. The chosen motif should contribute interest, while, at the same time, should lend the book a necessary unity. The theme's third and most important requirement is that it pertain to the particular school.

This year we have deviated from the more traditional themes and have chosen a design. For our 1962 HILLIFE we have selected the TRIANGLE. We feel that this three-cornered, three-sided figure is especially appropriate because almost all phases of our high school life, its location, organization, and program, can be divided into three parts.

In the following pages we present many of the triangles at Chapel Hill High School. They appear.....

On

. . . In the Three Seasons

Parents of many CHHS students marched in the academic procession.

Fall brings the opening of school with football games, Homecoming, and the return to school routine. Last fall the most important event was President Kennedy's visit to Chapel Hill to receive an honorary degree. All the city schools were dismissed so that the students might attend Kennedy's speech, delivered in Kenan Stadium.

CHHSers listen to Kennedy's speech.

Fall

Winter

With the coming of winter appear boy coats with raccoon collars, letter jackets, and ear muffs. Thoughts of Christmas with the library Christmas tree, adopting a Vietnamese orphan, the Christmas assembly, the UCYM carol sing, and church pageants soon follow.

The library Christmas tree is enjoyed by all.

of our School Year

Finally spring comes with beach parties, Easter vacation, and sunburns. The Junior class presents in May the long-awaited Junior-Senior. Then come final exams taken with wishful thoughts of June, then graduation, and finally summer vacations.

Seniors do last cramming for final exams.

Spring

Snow holidays, basketball games, and mid-term exams are also highlights of the winter season. In spite of all these activities, winter seems to drag out indefinitely.

CHHSers participate in the UCYM carol sing.

. . . In the Three Phases

A Thanksgiving Dance sponsor and her escort leave the Carolina Inn, scene of the formal Thanksgiving Dance.

Social Life

Social life at Chapel Hill High School varies from informal sock hops in the gym to the Thanksgiving Dance, held in the elegant Carolina Inn ballroom. The Junior-Senior, the most spectacular event of the year, is thoroughly enjoyed by the Seniors, but, for the Juniors, tired from nights of decorating, the dance simply means great relief. Other highlights of the social calendar include the Homecoming Dance and the Sweetheart Ball. Throughout the year various school organizations also give dances and parties for their members or the student body. The Latin Club Dance and the PROCONIAN'S "After Exams Dance" are typical of these.

CHHSers twist at a sock hop.

Industrious Sophomores study hard.

Academic

The academic program at Chapel Hill High School has long been very strong. Accredited by the Southern Association of Schools, CHHS sends a high percentage of its graduates to college each year. As further proof of its high academic quality, this year Chapel Hill High School had sixteen National Merit Semi-Finalists.

of Our School Life

Extra-curricular Activities

CHHSers participate in many extra-curricular activities, both in the school and in the community. They render service through such worthwhile community activities as the AFS Fourth of July Picnic, UNICEF, and the P.T.A. Thrift Shop.

Following interests, CHHSers join the school annual or newspaper staffs, or clubs such as the French or Spanish club.

Participation on an athletic team involves not only developing an interest, but also bringing recognition to the school by skill and good sportsmanship.

Candystripers devote many hours to helping children at Memorial Hospital.

Cheerleaders lead a pep-rally for a Senior victory at the Powder-Puff football game.

Work

A National Honor Society with capacity membership and a Spanish National Honor Society are active at CHHS. Both serve as stimuli for academic achievement. An outstanding high school library, well qualified teachers, and a balanced curriculum contribute much to this academic excellence.

"I think the air is a little warm in here. Let's open ALL the windows!"

. . . In our Three Years at

During Orientation Sophomores learn about different phases of CHHS life.

Sophomores are introduced to Chapel Hill High School through the orientation program and are soon assimilated into CHHS life. Their first fund-raising projects weld them into the closely-knit class that will work as a unit during the next three years.

Sophomores

Juniors begin to assume positions of school-wide leadership at CHHS. Carrying out many class projects and giving the Junior-Senior further develop their ability to organize and take responsibility.

Juniors

C H H S

Senior Joel Kaylor consults Mrs. Shepard, guidance counselor, about college.

Seniors, the leaders of Chapel Hill High School, are mainly concerned with plans for their future life. Filling out college and job applications and taking College Boards consume much of their time. Greatly matured by their three years at CHHS, Seniors graduate, ready to assume their position in the community or on a college campus.

CURRICULUM

The three phases of the curriculum at Chapel Hill High School - College Preparatory, Commercial, and General Vocational - make up an academic program that fulfills the needs of each individual student.

HILLIFE

Our English Program at CHHS is designed to present a survey in varying detail of the many phases of literature and composition.

During our Sophomore year we study many different types of literature. SILAS MARNER and JULIUS CAESAR are traditional parts of the Sophomore program.

As Juniors we delve into American literature. Reading THE SCARLET LETTER and writing our own short stories are highlights of this year.

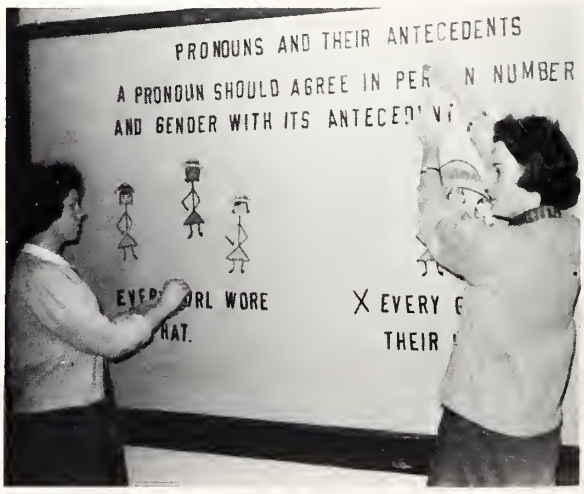

In our Senior year we center our studies around English literature. Term papers and Shakespeare are the year's outstanding aspects.

Though the emphasis is usually on literature, we also study grammar in greater detail each successive year.

Creative Writing, Journalism, World Literature, and Business English are other courses offered for those interested in these special fields.

Norva McKnight and Beverly Allen give a report on Korean art to World Lit. students.

Wynne Carter and Henrietta Hilliard put up bulletin board in Mrs. Bernhardt's room demonstrating correct English usage.

LANGUAGES

Parlez-vous francais? Habla usted espaniol? Loquerisne Latine? If a CHHS student were asked these questions, he would probably be able to answer affirmatively to one or more. For almost all students at CHHS take at least one of the three foreign languages--French, Spanish and Latin--offered at our high school.

This year in the language department there have been many innovations which include a third year French class and the increased use of tape recorders and dialogues.

In addition to the emphasis on conversation in the French and Spanish classes, much time is spent studying grammar and reading some of the literature of these two countries.

In the Latin courses the emphasis is on translation rather than conversation. The translating of Caesar's GALLIC WARS coincides with the Sophomore year study of Julius Caesar in World History and English.

A student interested in mathematics will find variety, quantity, and quality in the various math courses offered at CHHS.

First and Second year Algebra as well as Plane Geometry may be taught according to the SMSG plan or by the older method. SMSG-the School Mathematics Study Group-stresses reason rather than memorization.

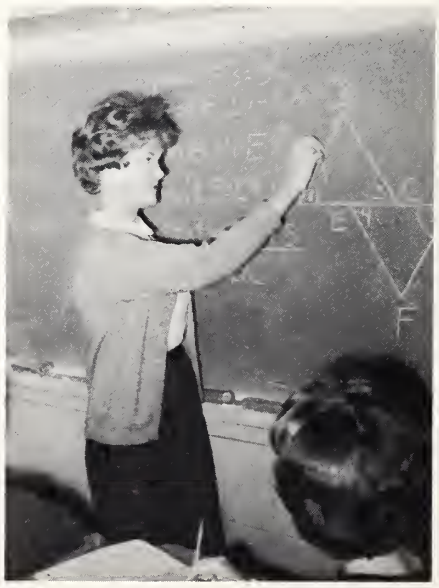

In addition to these fundamental courses of Algegra and Geometry, Math IV and Consumer Math are also offered.

Math IV is a combination of a semester of Trigonometry and one of Solid Geometry. This course is particularly useful to college preparatory students, especially those interested in the field of engineering.

Consumer Math is taken mainly by students in the commercial and general vocational fields and concentrates on the types of mathematics most useful in business.

Mr. Colson explains a physics problem.

SCIENCE

Mrs. Merriel Battle

Mrs. Ann Hoffelder
Biology, Chemistry
Red Cross Council

In Chemistry, students supplement their text with lab experiments.

The science courses offered at CHHS cover many different phases of this subject.

In Biology, required of all Sophomores, all forms of life from microscopic plants to the human body are studied.

Chemistry students memorize many equations and the properties of the various elements in order to learn about the composition of matter.

The close correlation between math and science is especially evident in Physics.

Senior Science students study various aspects of physical science and lab procedures.

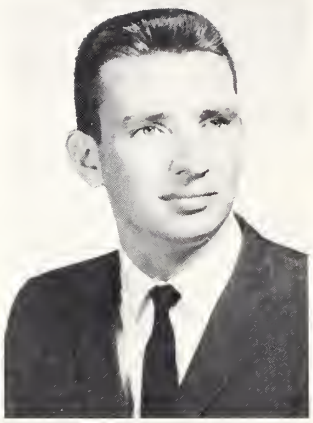

Susan White, Tony Mason, Zan Ritchie, and Carl Anderson examine Physics apparatus.

Biology students Nancy Saunders and Bunny Rogers dissect a frog.

National Honor Society

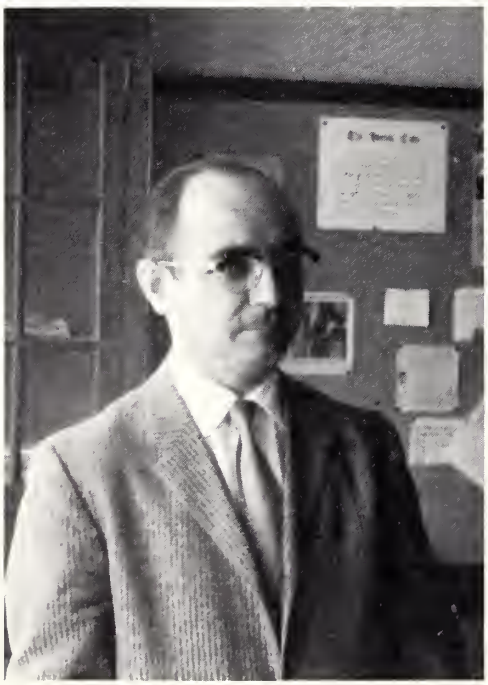

Roman projects, modern U.S. History term papers, stock market reports, and innumerable maps--these are the symbols for our social studies department.

World History, usually taken in the Sophomore or Senior year, follows civilizations and world events from Egyptian tombs to the U.N. building.

Juniors are required to take U.S. History, which parallels their study of American literature. The story of our country from exploration to the present time is the main path of study.

Economics-Sociology and World Geography are offered to those interested in these particular phases of social studies.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Mr. Conn explains the downfall of the Roman empire to World History students.

"Now Thomas Jefferson's another one of my boyfriends."

LIBRARY, GUIDANCE COUNSELING

Mrs. Helen Peacock
Librarian
Library Club

Mrs. Rebecca Shepard
Guidance Counselor

We at CHHS are very fortunate in having one of the finest high school libraries in the state. Its 2,500 fiction books and 8,300 non-fiction books cover the wide range of subjects needed for our courses. Besides books, the library also contains many magazines, newspapers, and records.

This year for the first time CHHS has had a full-time guidance counselor. Mrs. Shepard has filled a great need and has been especially helpful to Seniors choosing colleges and careers. In addition to providing information concerning scholarships, College Boards, and job opportunities, she has also helped many with their personal problems.

Students make good use of the library's research facilities.

Commercial, Home Economics, and Industrial Arts are three practical courses taught to prepare us for the future.

Home Economics students study the many aspects of homemaking, concentrating especially on cooking and sewing.

The experience gained in the Commercial courses, Bookkeeping, Typing, and Shorthand is beneficial in business as well as in personal use.

The Industrial Arts program includes a wide variety of experience in drawing and design, metal-working, graphic arts, and the industrial crafts.

ART, MUSIC, PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Through Physical Education, Chorus, Band, and Art we develop special talents.

During the course of the year the members of the chorus present several programs which show their ability in many types of music.

The band members also display their musical talents by playing at football games and by giving several concerts.

In Art classes different media and techniques are explored.

Variety is also the key in Physical Education as the students participate in many sports.

RECEIVING CLASS RINGS

ADMIRING SENIOR PICTURES

CLASS HISTORY

The Fall of 1958 was the beginning, for one hundred and forty-two of us entered Chapel Hill High as freshmen that year and became the class of 1962.

We were eager than--eager for snack shack and lunch uptown, for pep rallies and assemblies, for classes and exams, for chocolate sales and parking meter petitions, for J. V. football and Latin I.

The last class to spend four years in CHHS, we witnessed bomb threats, car packing fads, and green cards; a new gym, cafeteria, and home ec. department; Dr. Johnston's beginning as superintendent and Miss Marshbanks' first year as principal. We learned about ourselves and about our new school. We passed General Science and the MERCHANT OF VENICE, and marked one more mile on the long road to graduation.

As Sophomores, we came back to CHHS with enthusiasm--dissecting worms and studying JULIUS CAESAR, watching Mr. Madison throw his arms out of joint and learning accents with Mrs. Phelps, trading lockers and paying library fines. Our championship Sophomore basketball team won sixteen straight games, and the price of lunch went up to 30¢. We raised money at our cartoon show and held our carnival in the halls when it rained outside. We gained confidence in ourselves and moved onward--ready for the next two years.

The fall of 1960 brought thoughts of the Junior-Senior prom, and we sponsored another carnival and cartoon show. Then came bake sales, the bowling party, PICNIC, the Junior-Senior basketball game, MEET ME IN ST. LOUIS. This was the year of U.S. History under Mr. Ellington and Miss Wilkin, computing angles under Mrs. Edwards, struggling with short stories under Mrs. Gill. It was the year of pop bottle drives, mock elections, and AFS applications.

We elected Julie and Rusty as our social chairmen, said good-bye to Sarah as our rec leader, took college boards for practice and National Merits for real. The biggest thrill of all, however, came on May 12 when, humming along with the "Ambassadors", we unveiled "An Evening in Paris."

The Junior-Senior and our third year at CHHS over, we moved on to the top of the high school ladder. As sophisticated Seniors we helped with the first full-scale Sophomore orientation program before plunging into our last year on The Hill.

Sixteen Seniors--the most in the history of the school--were selected National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists, three new courses--Creative Writing, Industrial Arts, French III--were added to the curriculum. We rejoiced over front seats in the auditorium, worried about college applications, learned about Antarctica from Mr. Colson, studied RETURN OF THE NATIVE under Miss Lewis, defeated the Juniors in powderpuff football, took our turn as the "leaders" of CHHS. We held our class meeting and elected Rusty to follow our other class presidents--Frank, Bet, and George. We admired each others' rings and pictures, ordered caps and gowns, sent out graduation invitations, exchanged calling cards.

All too soon, it was over, and we sat together for the last time, waiting for our diplomas. We were on the threshold of a new world, as twelve years of public education were at an end. We left CHHS a little older, a little wiser, a little less impulsive. We left CHHS with fondness, hope, and memories. Memories of--Making up snow days. . .AFSers Terry, Charo, Micky, and Poum. . .Big and Little Thomas. . .George Canada. . .pep days . . .Thanksgiving dances. . .decorating for the Junior-Senior in the rain. . . Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF. . .adopting a Vietnamese orphan. . .SCA elections. . .all conference Senior football players--Tom Broadfoot, Sonny McIver, Gene Williams. . .four wonderful years at Chapel Hill High School. . .

ACTIVITIES

The three types of clubs at CHHS--those which further students' academic interests, those which prepare for future life, and those which help the school--offer to each student a chance to develop his interests and abilities.

S C A OFFICERS

Vice-President:
David McConnell.

Secretary:
Judy Timmons

President: George Costello.

Treasurer: Ann Cleaveland.

Advisor: Mrs. Edwards.

Run by the Student Council, the School Store is open almost the whole day.

The Student Council is the "right arm" of the student body. Serving as the voice of the students, it also supports and strengthens other school organizations. Its various projects are carried out to benefit the students.

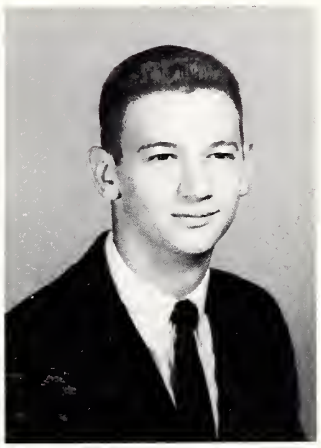

The Council operates the School Store and Snack Shack. Homecoming, Orientation, "Weep Week," and Stunt Night are sponsored by the Council. Its publications, the DIAL and THE KEY benefit all students.

HONOR COUNCIL

The judicial branch of the Student Government is the Honor Council. Each class elects an associate justice to serve with the Chief Justice, who is elected by the entire student body. The clerk of the Honor Council is selected by the members themselves.

This organization enables the students to practice self-discipline.

Billy Horn, Associate Justice, posts the Honor Code.

PROCONIAN STAFF

Serving as our communication media, the PROCONIAN plays an essential role in the life of CHHS. The staff, composed of the journalism class, turns out our paper on alternate Fridays.

This year, for the first time, the PROCONIAN sponsored a radio show, "Ins and Outs."

Two dances, the annual Sweetheart Ball and the After-Exam Dance, were also sponsored by the paper staff.

PROCONIAN

Published for the students by the students of CHHS twice a month.

As a staff last June we were, for the most part, totally inexperienced and still incomplete. During the summer we added more members, looked through every annual we saw, and tried to think of a theme. By September Mrs. Sullivan was back in town, and we were ready to make decisions and progress. Our staff was at last complete, and we all knew that a gutter wasn't a part of the sewage system, that a bleeding picture required no first aid, and that a dummy wasn't used by a dressmaker--we were prepared to dig in! Bet explained everything and explained everything. We waded through the problems of our first dummies, "meaningful heads", the confusion of class pictures and improperly dressed classmates, a shortage of photographers, a thoroughly disorganized HILLIFE room, and triangles, triangles, and more triangles. At last we began on the master layouts with their innumerable carbons to be erased. Then, when we thought that we would never hear from Paul Newman, take enough girls' and boys' sports pictures, and get the copy written--we finally went to press!

The Library Club contributes a very necessary service to the high school. Among its many duties are preparing and cataloguing new books, shelving books, and serving at the circulation desk.

The activities and achievements of this club are recorded in a scrapbook which serves as a permanent record. As a break from their hard work, the students attend state and district conventions where they exchange ideas and learn more about various library systems.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

Members of the F.H.A. observe a demonstration on hairstyles.

The Future Homemakers of America received for their activities the "Most Outstanding Club" award for the year of 1960-61 from the Student Council Association.

This club serves to further the experience of its members in the art of homemaking.

Among its many activities for the past year were the holding of its annual Mother-Daughter banquet. This spring the members made Easter favors for the children in the hospital.

ATHLETICS

The three seasons in which we participate in athletic sports are fall with football, winter with basketball and swimming, and spring with baseball and track.

CHEERLEADERS

Lee Milner, Bev Leng, Gale Greene, Peggy Sparrow, Carley Looney, Billie Merritt, Cynthia Seawell, Myrt Trageser, Bo Lalanne, Head Neal Ashcraft.

Neal in action.

Ten girls comprise CHHS's cheerleading squad which is headed this year by Neal Ashcraft.

The squad is busily occupied almost an entire year. Immediately upon dismissal of school last June the cheerleaders, chosen in mid-May, began practice sessions which continued all summer. During the school year they publicized all sports events with posters and announcements and cheered for basketball and football games.

Certainly all CHHSers owe a debt of gratitude to the cheerleaders for their efforts to boost team support.

The cheerleaders' efforts added much to Homecoming this year.

"Please make that point."

Bev and Gail cheer the team to victory.

"Will it or won't it light?"

"All good Wildcats stand up and holler."

FOOTBALL

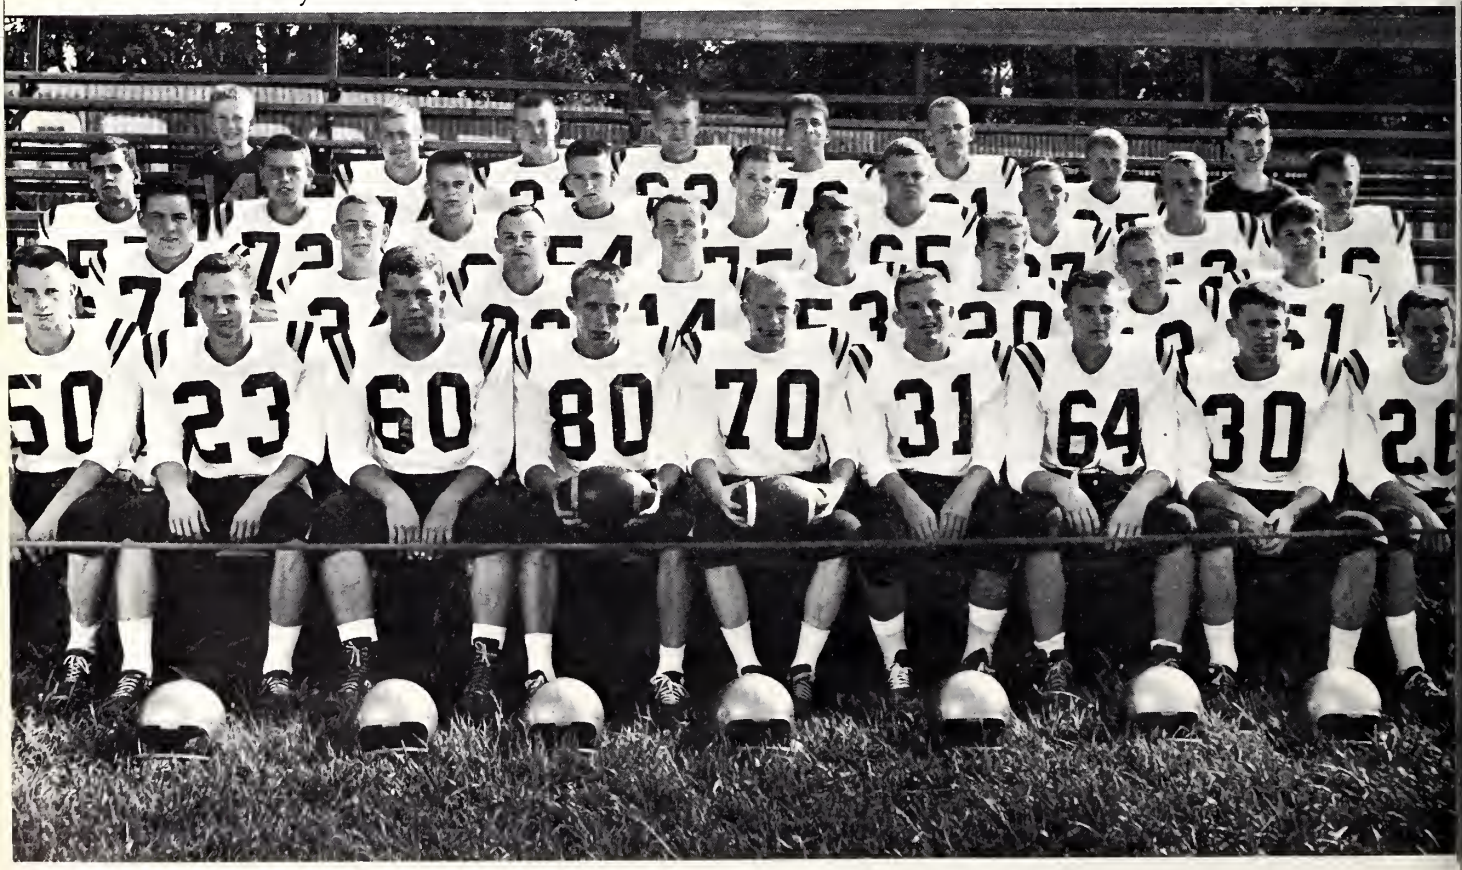

Coach Robert Culton; Co-captains Sonny McIver, Bobby Neville; Assistant Coach Russell Perry.

1961 was a disappointing gridiron year for the Wildcats as they won two games, lost five, and tied three to place sixth in District III standing.

The closest and most heartbreaking loss of the year was to Hillsboro. End Larry Roberts intercepted a Chapel Hill pass on the last play of the game and raced 90 yards to score and win the game for Hillsboro 25-19. Henderson also robbed the Cats of almost certain victory when they completed a T.D. pass in the closing seconds of the game to even the score 19-19.

The Cats ended the year with a 34-14 loss to Thomasville in a post-season game.

Two Chapel Hill players, Co-captain Sonny McIver and Tom Broadfoot, were chosen first string, All Conference by the District III coaches.

BASKETBALL

The 1962 Basketball squad anticipated another outstanding season, and with good reason. Four of the top stars from the 1961 team, Charlie Phillips, Don Smith, Kenny Oettinger, and Arthur Straughn, were still with the Wildcats this year. With such talent and great drive in their favor, the Wildcats hoped to to into the Conference Tournaments in March and come out on top.

The '62 Kittens were inexperienced since they lost all but five girls from the 1961 District Runner-Up Squad, but they proved to be well balanced with depth at both offense and defense.

Team unity and spirit were characteristics of the team which got off to a fast start by downing the defending champs from Graham for the first time in many years.

HOMECOMING

HOMECOMING QUEEN CANDIDATES FOR 1961

Poum Koch, Judy Andrews, Judy Gesell, Paula Sturdevant, Deedee Whitney, Kathy Kage, Gale Green, Kay Marley, Peggy Sparrow.

Action was tense during the Homecoming game, as Tony Lloyd tackles a Hillsboro man.

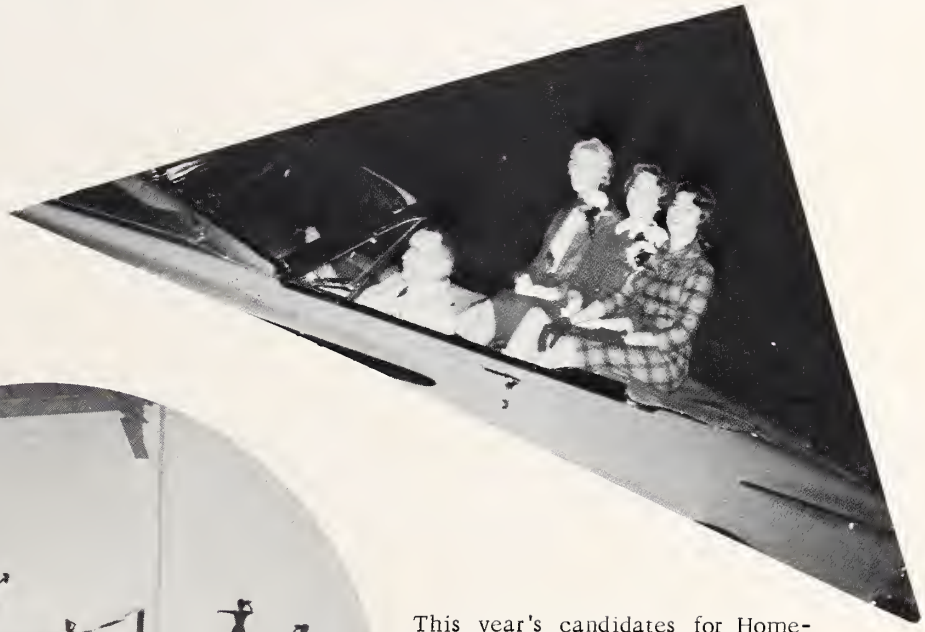

C. H. H. S. spectators anxiously watch the game between Chapel Hill and Hillsboro.

In spite of our loss to Hillsboro, 25-19, this year's Homecoming was one of the best C. H. H. S. has ever had. The game, the school spirit, the crowning of the Queens, the dance and all the effort put into it, made this evening one not soon to be forgotten.

Kathy Kage is crowned Homecoming Queen by Dr. Johnston, as Football Queen Peggy Sparrow and Senior Class Queen Judy Gesell look on.

This year's candidates for Homecoming Queen are Kathy Kage, Deedee Whitney, and Paula Sturdevant.

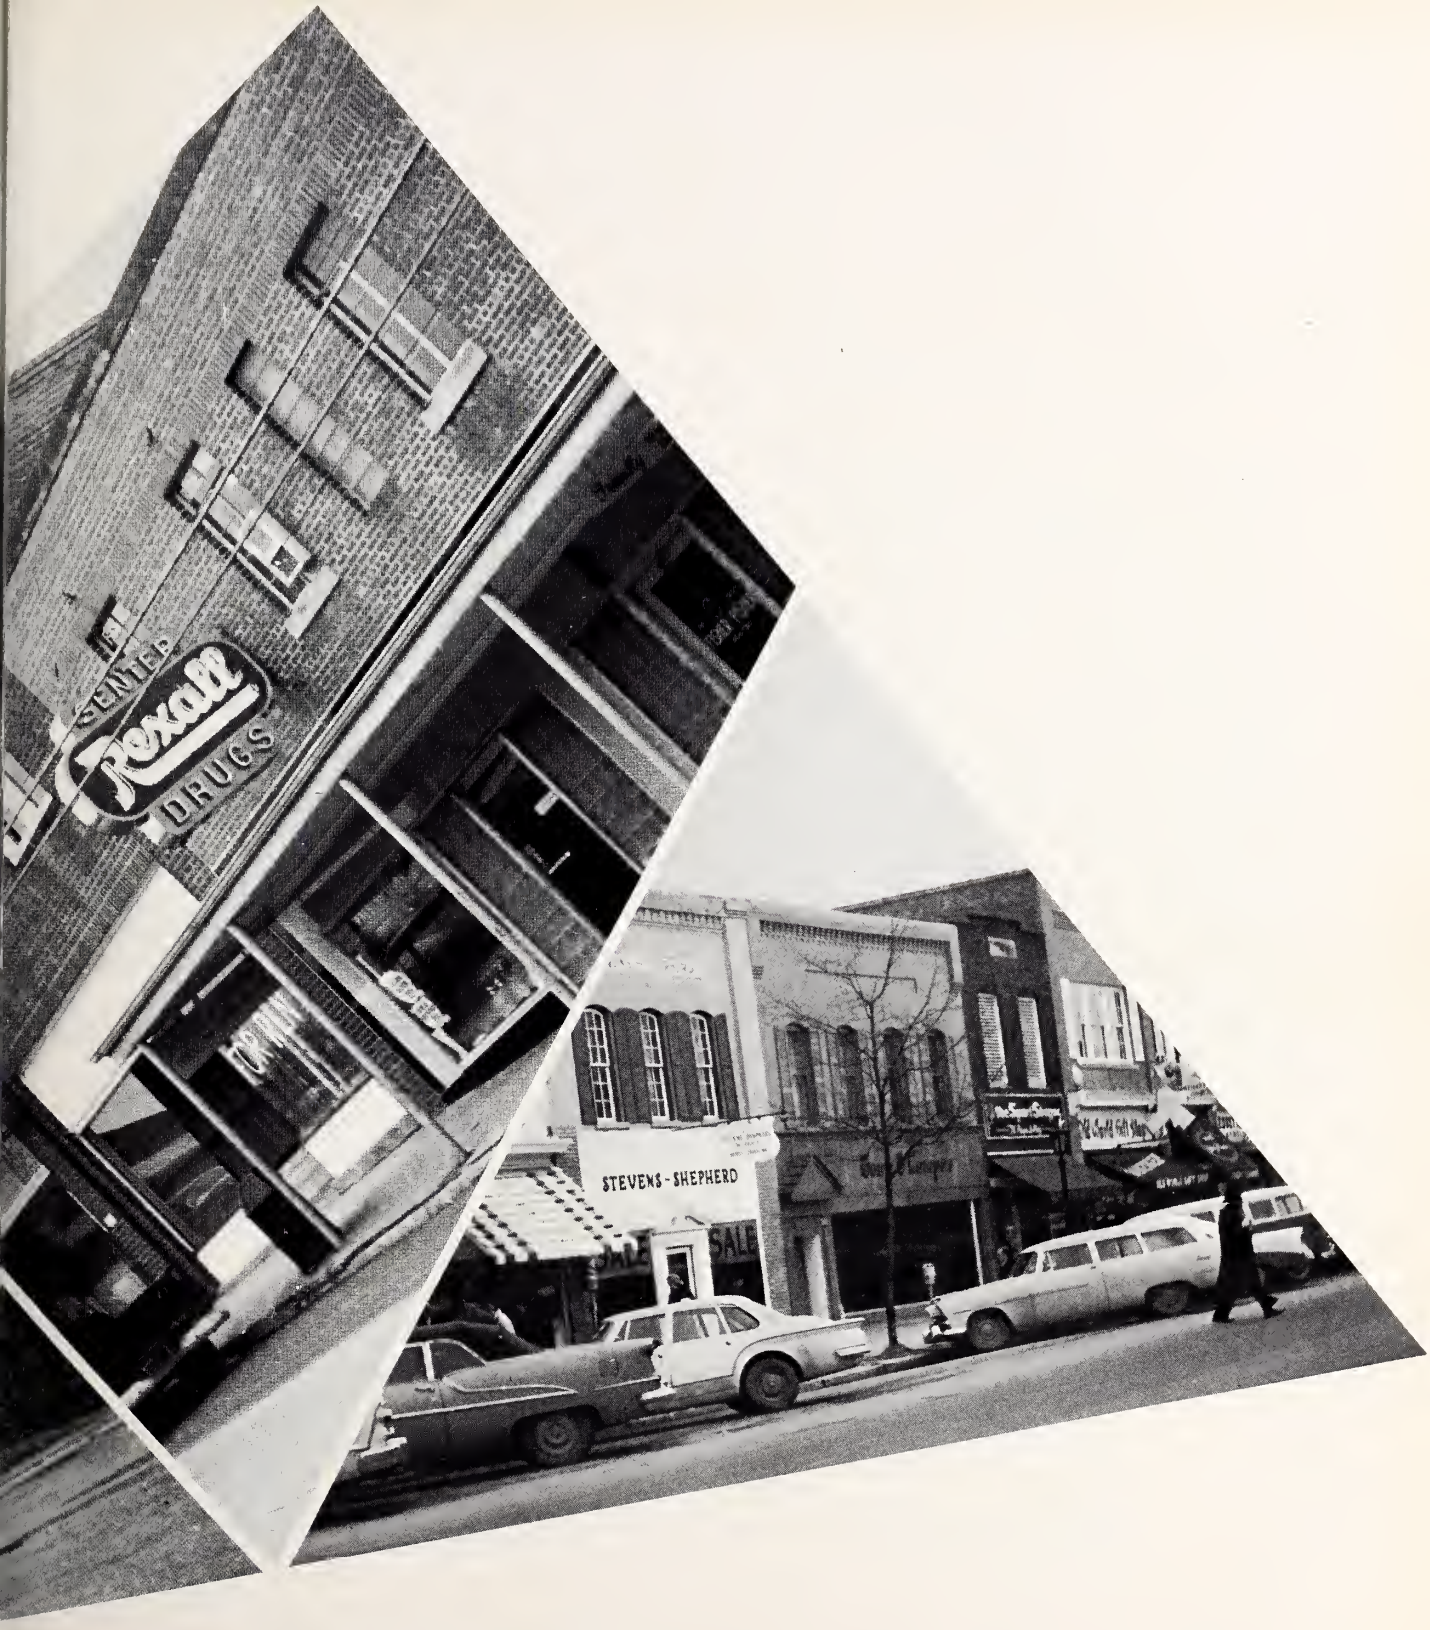

The Homecoming Dance was the perfect ending to a perfect evening.
